The minimum qualifications required for each designation are provided below to assist you in understanding the value of each designation.

Accredited Investment Fiduciary[®] (AIF[®]): The AIF[®] designation certifies that the recipient has specialized knowledge of fiduciary standards of care and their application to the investment management process. To receive the AIF[®] designation, individuals must complete a training program, successfully pass a comprehensive, closed-book final examination under the supervision of a proctor and agree to abide by the AIF[®] Code of Ethics. In order to maintain the AIF[®] designation, the individual must annually renew their affirmation of the AIF[®] Code of Ethics and complete six hours of continuing education credits. This program provides the applicant with a thorough knowledge of mutual funds and their various uses as investment vehicles. The College for Financial Planning® awards the Chartered Mutual Fund CounselorSM (CMFC®) designation to students who:

- successfully complete the program;

Buttonwood however was subject to a limited scope regulatory compliance examination which began in November of 2018 and was conducted by the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). The exam was followed by an investigation process during which the firm received requests for formal statements and additional documents from SEC enforcement staff. On May 12, 2021, the firm and Mr. McGraw received a Wells notice letter from SEC staff notifying them that they intend to recommend to the SEC that it file an enforcement action for alleged violations of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940. On September 23, 2021, the SEC initiated a civil action alleging that Buttonwood and Mr. McGraw invested client assets in generally more expensive mutual funds without disclosing the practice and the related conflict of interest in order to avoid paying certain transaction costs. The firm and Mr. McGraw dispute the allegations and inferences made by the SEC in this pending complaint and intend to defend them in court. He may only transact insurance related business with clients when the products are fully disclosed, suitable, and appropriate to fit their needs. Because the receipt of commissions by Mr. McGraw presents a conflict of interest, Clients are informed that they are under no obligation to use Mr. McGraw (or any individual associated with Buttonwood) for insurance products or services.
